PM&L performs the Bard's 'Cliff's Notes'

Seeing is believing. Those who think 37 plays cannot be performed in 97 minutes, need to come and see PM&L Theatre's third production of the season: The Reduced Shakespeare Company's "Complete Works of William Shakespeare" (abridged) by Jeff Borgeson, Adam Lang, and Daniel Singer.

The show has been the longestrunning comedy in England's West End, and is said to be one of the funniest nights ever spent in a theater. Performances begin here in Antioch on Feb. 8 with three shows per weekend over the next three weeks.

"Just the costume changes are incredible," said Ken Smouse, one of PM&L's founders. "There are only five actors and have to change frequently."

According to promotional material "It's well known (in England) that Americans are too impatient to read much and have short attention spans," so The Reduced Shakespeare Company has taken this idea to a ridiculous extreme.

The cast of five PM&L actors compress all 37 of Shakespeare's plays into the 97 minutes. Highlights include "Hamlet" performed backwards, and "Othello" as a rap song.

Bruce Weise of Woodstock directs the performance. Reggie Reynolds of Antioch is the stage manager. The actors are as follows: Paul Bleadow, Kenosha; Timothy Curtis and Maraugh Quinlan, Woodstock; Stacy Majers, Antioch; Ken Scheske, Salem.

Ticket prices are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors.

Crisis plan presentation schedule available

Community High School Dist. 117 (ACHS) has announced a formal schedule of presentations to highlight details of a proposed crisis plan if the $.28 Education Fund referendum on the March 19 ballot is not approved.

"The question I have gotten most often early in the campaign is from Antioch residents asking why they should support a second school which is not located in Antioch,' said Supt. Dennis Hockney.

He said the answer is that voters are being asked to vote for the money necessary to maintain and improve the programs within the district no matter where they are located.

"It's not a matter of where the schools are located because it is one school district with two high schools," he said. He also emphasized that the referendum is not about buildings (the second building has already been funded), but about programs for the students.

Hockney then used the examples of District 113 (Deerfield and Highland Park High Schools) and District 128 (Libertyville and Vernon Hills High Schools) to illustrate a similar organization pattern as that of between Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst.

follows: Feb. 5 at 7 p.m. to Emmons School PTO; Feb. 11 at 6:30 p.m. to Oakland School PTO; Feb. 14 at 7 p.m. at the Lake Villa Area Library as a community forum; Feb 18 at 6:30 p.m. to Hillcrest School PTO; Feb. 25 at 6:30 p.m. to Antioch Upper Grade School PTO; Feb. 25 at 8:30 p.m. at TNT's Restaurant to the Lions Club; Feb. 27 at 7 p.m. to Millburn School PTO; Feb. 28 at noon at the Harbour

Club Restaurant to the Antioch Rotary Club; March 4 at noon at ACHS as a joint luncheon of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and the Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce; March 5 at 6:30 p.m. to W.C. Petty School PTO; and March 12 at 7 p.m. at the First National Bank-Employee Owned for the Antioch Jr. Woman's Club.

Any group interested in having a The presentation schedule is as presentation made should contact Hockney at 847-838-7170.

> "It's been 30 years since the last increase in the Education Fund in District 117," said Hockney. "I believe when voters think about the planning the (education) board has done over the course of 30 years, and in particular what the board has accomplished in the last five years without an increase in the Education Fund tax rate, they will be supportive."

'Animal House'-style shoplifter in dog house

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

While it was an entertaining scene in the movie "Animal House," the Jewel store manager was not amused when a customer pointed out a suspicious patrol stuffing food and cosmetics into his oversize coat.

Steven Brage, 50, of 42228 W. Second St., Antioch, was arrested for felony retail theft and for attempting to obstruct a police officer on Jan. 10 at 8:25 p.m.

"He was caught leaving the store without paying for the items he had put in his coat," said Antioch Police

Lt. Ronald Roth. "He was apprehended by police who found $198 of merchandise on him."

Police were contacted by the Jewel manager and given a description of Brage, and he was stopped while preparing to leave the parking

Roth said Brage was found with fake fingernails, filet mignon, crab legs, socks, sardines, nylons, film, meat seasoning and cheese tucked away in his coat.

After Brage was arrested, he was transported to bond court and remanded to the Lake County Jail on $35,000 bond (10 percent applies).

Food pantry sees more clients since 9-11

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

The St. Peter Food Pantry has seen a sharp increase in the number of people it services since Sept. 11. Monthly numbers have increased from 246 adults and 273 children served in September to 325 adults and 386 children in December, 2001.

"We're seeing a lot more working poor people," said Deacon Scott Keenan who runs the pantry. "People have gotten laid off and are working two jobs instead of their one job, and still aren't making it."

Adding to the problem, according to Keenan, is that there have cutbacks in social services and other reforms making fewer people eligible to receive aid such as food stamps.

"We had one family come to us that wasn't eligible for food stamps because of $500 they were receiving in disability," said Keenan. "Only

The pantry does its best not to turn those in need away.

Food baskets include six meals per person within a household and include fresh milk, bread and meat items in addition to canned and boxed goods. Diapers and formula are also available to families with

"If someone comes in from another area like Round Lake, we'll give them food the first time and then offer suggestions of other places nearer to home where help can be sought," said Keenan.

St. Peter Food Pantry finished its second year of operation with the end of 2001, and has seen a lot of growth of support during that time.

"There were times when we could barely scrap together a box-of macaroni and cheese to give out, but things always work out," said Keenan. "We now get USDA foods through a program called the Emergency Food Program and this helps a lot."

Volunteers help Keenan with a mountain of paperwork that keeps the pantry eligible for federal food programs that help to keep the shelves stocked, in addition to filling boxes and greeting clients.

Keenan said residents and businesses alike in Antioch have been supportive extremely DiMarco's Restaurant dropping off some boxes of frozen chicken during the interview.

"We have all sorts of clients and all sorts of volunteers," said Keenan. "It doesn't matter if you go to church. This is the community of St. Peter and the community of Antioch. We're here to help."

Sixteen arrested on Bishop Street

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

An anonymous noise complaint led to the arrest of sixteen area youths for minor consumption of alcohol shortly after 11 p.m. on Jan. 25 on the 1100 block of Bishop St., Antioch.

Raymond E. Miltimore, 22, and the only one of some thirty people over the age of 21 years, was charged with unlawfully allowing minors to become intoxicated at his home and for disorderly conduct for disturbing the peace.

"The portable breath tester was a life saver for the officers," said Antioch Police Lt. Ronald Roth.

The officers at the scene determined the excessive noise was coming from a party within the residence. "When they (the officers) were allowed entry it was obvious that underage drinking was going on and that some of those under age were intoxicated," said Roth.

He added, "There were about 30 people in an 18 foot by 20 foot room."

Roth said Miltimore was not charged with supplying the alcohol because the party-goers wouldn't divulge how they got the alcohol.

Of those arrested for minor consumption of alcohol, three refused to take a breath test and were instead given field sobriety tests. The blood alcohol concentrations of the other 13 ranged from .02-.10.

Those arrested for minor consumption of alcohol are as follows: Scott Dunklau, 20, of 42169 N. First Ave., Antioch; Justin Elmore, 18, of 61 Country Cove, Lake Villa; Gene Engler, 18, of 42343 Chestnut St., Antioch; Kristin Fege, 18, 44 Elm St., Fox Lake; Cory Foren, 18, 26546 W. Wilmot, Antioch; Sarah Forster, 20, 25970 W. Sunnyride, Antioch; Paul Gunn, 20, 428 Harden St.,

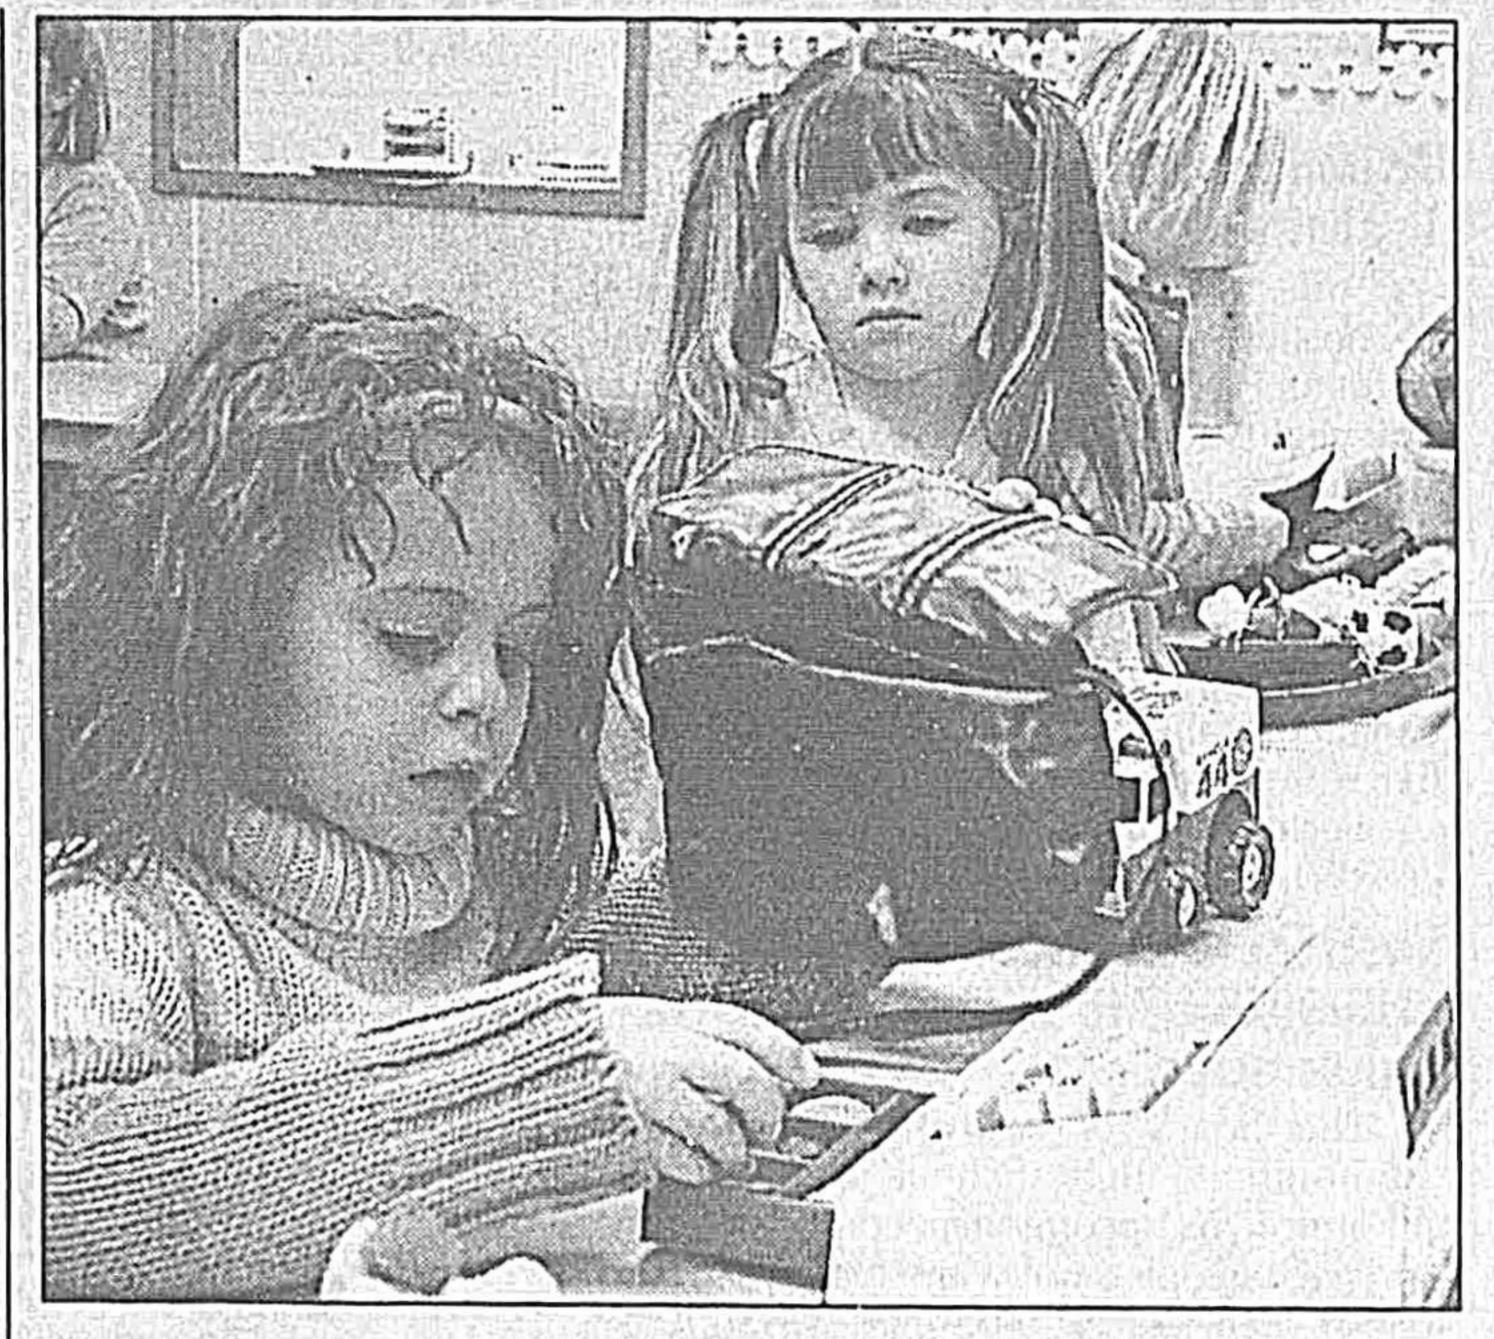

Antioch; Joshua Marcomb, 19, of 9524 Camp Lake Rd, Camp Lake, Wis.; Thomas Parish, 20, of 26415 W. Beach' St., Antioch; Christie Pezzati, 20, of 25408 W. A St., Antioch; Jerrad Ponce, 20, 18633 Lazy Acre, Lake Villa; John Ramig, 18, 42160 First Ave., Antioch; Erik Sesko, 18, 25312 Dering Lane, Lake Villa; Sarah Steel, 20, 40720 Rte. 83, Antich; and Hollie Virse, 20 of 948 Main St., Antioch.

Virse and Gunn were charged with obstructing a police officer.

Officers made arrests after determining who had been drinking. They were then transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where they were put through booking procedures. All were released pending a Feb. 27 court date in Grayslake.

Minor consumption of alcohol can carry a fine of up to $500.

"This happened at a time of a shift change, so we were able to get some assistance from those officers who were to go off duty," said Roth. "It's time consuming to book that many people at once."

Is that it?

Vet in stintas Olympic judge

By JULIE MURPHY Staff Reporter

Veterinarian Mike Passarella will take a couple of weeks off from his practice later this month to serve as an Olympic judge in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Passarella, who went to the Olympics as an alternate speed skater in 1968, said it has long been a dream to become an Olympic judge. He was selected from a pool of qualified judges to make the trip.

"I've been a judge (for speed skating) for about the past eight years for the Olympic Trials," said Passarella. "What makes the difference this year is that the Olympics are being held here." Prior to that, he said he worked as a judge on a local level.

Passarella said he jogs for exercise as "it's hard to find ice around here unless you go to Milwaukee."

For those who utilize Passarella's services through the Antioch Animal Hospital, he said some arrangements have been made to help his patients while he's gone.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mayor, trustees deserve thanks too

Concerned citizens of Antioch and surrounding communities regarding Neumann Homes:

As you know by now, the Neumann Homes Development was voted down by the village board thanks to all the citizens of the area who cared enough to let our elected officials know how they felt by responding with phone calls, letters or just being there at the meetings.

We also want to thank the Mayor and the trustees for realizing that Neumann Homes still does not have all the necessary paperwork and documentation in proper order at this time.

Thank you for your support.

Joan Horan Antioch

Coming together

Monday evening, Jan. 21, Antioch High School commons room, packed to the walls:

A date and place that future generations of Antioch citizens can look back upon as our finest hour. When little town America took courage to stand up for it's vision of what they wanted their community to become in the future, even if it did not comply with the mega-growth, big dollar, big development powers that are running things these days.

This grizzled old cynic had to choke back the lump in his throat and wetting of eye as he saw and heard the village trustees and then the mayor unanimously vote to deny a planned unit development that was so huge as to overwhelm our village's infrastructure and would drag us and future generations into a financial malestrom. That on top of destroying our vision of gentle and planned development with space to breathe and space for the preservation of that sensitive thing that man cannot improve upon-nature.

There was just a moment of hush after the vote as it sunk in, then the roof blew off. Yelling and cheering, clapping and hugging, a rush to the village board table and shaking of hands. Robert's rules of order were out the window, we were really a community now. Citizens and their government welded together in fellowship, ready to face what lies ahead. We'll not hang separately, we'll hang together, as the old saying goes, if necessary.

How I wish you all could have been there to witness the courage, the joy, and the unity. I've got a feeling our nation's founding fathers were looking down and smiling that evening. What the USA is all about.

Darrell B. May Antioch

A student's reflections on Sept. 11

Terrorism is a word that scares people. Freedom, to people, means good, and we are not afraid of it. Osamah Binladin is a scary name to people, but it doesn't scare them as much as they want to hurt him.

Afghanistan is different from the United States of America. To Americans, U.S.A. stands for freedom, life, and should be a safe not harmful place. The U.S.A. to Osamah Binladen is a swear word. That is why Americans cannot be scared as long as we work together and live in peace.

People have different definitions for freedom and peace. Sept. 11 was kind of like the olden days. Everything was the whites' way. Blacks were slaves and wanted freedom and peace.

Osamah Binladen is like the whites and wanted it his way, and the United States is like the blacks. They wanted peace and they fought back. The U.S.A. is going to fight back and win. The U.S.A. will have freedom and peace.

God bless America!

Lake County sports bars have a special responsibility to avid sports fans – give them every game possible, especially all of the Chicago teams, good food and snappy service.

Searching for a good place to catch Super Bowl XXXVI, or simply just looking to get out and be social?

Either way, area restaurants and taverns are in the midst of gearing up for one of the most-watched sporting events of the year.

"It truly is a big social event. We had a great crowd last year and expect the same again this year," said Curt Johnson, owner of Captain Curt's, 25855 W. Rte. 173, Antioch. "There's always a lot of people interested in doing side bets with their friends. You can't do that from the couch."

And speaking of Captain's Curt's, the party begins roughly around 4 p.m. With kick-off slated for 5:18 p.m. Captain Curt's will be offering a food buffet and touchdown shot specials. It will also raffle off 20 door prizes at halftime, including a Miller blow up chair, Coleman cooler and various T-shirts and hats. For more information call 847-395-8604.

Taking a look at other venues around the county, food should be plentiful at Jimmy V's in Fox Lake, as it will be holding a chili cook-off.

Numerous prizes, giveaways and drink specials will also be available. The game will be featured on Jimmy V's 16-inch television screens. Over 100 people are expected to attend.

Panna cotta with a San Francisco twist an Francisco is well-known for its outstanding restaurants. One of them is the heralded Farallon, which opened in 1997. Food lovers who might not get to this gourmet haven can experience it through a recently published cookbook, "Farallon," (Chronicle Books, 2001) by Mark Franz and

Lisa Weiss with desserts by Emily Luchetti. The recipes may be a handful for all but the most proficient home cooks, but they are creatively conceived and carefully explained. The glossy pictures alone are enough to cause a viewer to salivate. Executive chef Franz likes to improvise and, of course, he has access to fresh seafood and locally grown herbs and produce.

Some day we will attempt his "Seafood sausage with hazelnut mashed potatoes and cardamon-saffron sauce" as well as "Crab imperial gratin with corn, potatoes, tarragon crème faîche and lemon zest.

Meanwhile, we fell in love with Luchetti's honey panna cottas, a smooth and delicate dessert treat.

Honey Panna Cottas with Dried Fruit & Sauternes Compote

Serves 8

Panna cotta: 3 1/4 cups heavy cream

3/4 cup whole milk 1/3 cup honey

Pinch of kosher salt

1 package plain gelatin 3 Tbl. water

sweet chemies 1 cup water 1 cup Sauternes or other sweet white wine

Dried fruit and sauternes compote:

1/2 cup sliced almonds, toasted

1/4 cup dried apricots, cut into 1/4-in. pieces

1/4 cup dried pears, sour cherries or pitted fresh

To make the panna cottas: Lightly spray eight 4-ounce ramekins with nonstick vegetable-oil cooking spray, or use nonstick tartlet pans. In a large, heavy saucepan, heat the cream and milk over medium-high heat until bubbles form around the edges of the pan. Remove from heat. Stir in the honey and salt and set aside; don't whisk, to avoid making foam bubbles. In a small bowl, stir the gelatin and water together and let sit for 2 minutes. Place the bowl of gelatin over a small saucepan of barely simmering water until liquid and translucent. Test the cream mixture with your finger - it should be very warm, but not hot. Stir in the softened gelatin, then pour the cream mixture into the ramekins. Let cool, then cover with plastic and refrigerate until set, about 3 hours, or for up to 2 days. To make the dried fruit compote: In a medium saucepan, combine the fruit, water and wine and cook over medium heat until the fruit has softened, 3 to 4 minutes. Set aside, or cover and refrigerate for up to 4 days. To serve, fill a shallow bowl with very hot water and set aside. Dip a panna cotta ramekin into the water for 5 seconds (being careful not to get any water inside), wipe dry, then run a small knife around the edge of the ramekin and carefully invert onto a plate. Repeat with the remaining panna cottas. Spoon the fruit compote and its liquid around the panna cottas and sprinkle with the toasted almonds.

Improvisations: Instead of honey, you can sweeten the panna cottas with an equal amount of sugar. Add spices like cinnamon or nutmet, and serve them with fresh fruit instead of dried. Besides fresh berries, try sauteed apples or pears. Serve with crunchy cookies for a contrast in texture.

'Snow Dogs' no snow job

here wasn't anything about the movie trailer Disney put out to make one think that "Snow Dogs" was going to be anything other than what it is: formula family entertainment.

Disney never completely fails animals or princesses, so I felt pretty safe believing this movie would have adequate entertainment value and it did. There were areas of humor (some of it mildly crude), adventure and suspense - followed by touching, tender moments.

Ted Brooks (Cuba Gooding, Jr., in the adult role) was raised to be a dentist. He follows in his father's footsteps, and becomes a dentist with enough flair to shine as bright as his patients' teeth

Brooks is content and successful, continuing his father's dental practice. After inheriting a sled dog team, he discovers that he may not have been destined to be a dentist as he once thought. Brooks ventures from the white sand in Miami to the white snow in Tolketna, Alaska to find the truth about his roots.

after he fixes them.

Brooks is, of course, a fish out of water unsure of how to deal with the eccentric townsfolk he meets including magistrate and pilot George (M. Emmet Walsh); Barb (Joanna Bacalso), saloon owner and eventual love interest; and his rough dog sledding rival Thunder Jack (James Coburn).

The dogs that Brooks inherited are equally quirky. The lead dog, Demon, takes an immediate dislike to his new owner and the others

Brooks nearly sells the dogs to Thunder Jack at rock bottom prices, but in the end does right by the dogs.

In terms of acting, the dogs are wonderful and their expressions and interactions with one another are worth the price of admission. Gooding and Coburn are good given the material.

The rest of the cast is adequate in the typical family and support roles that are part of Disney's formula.

The scenery is spectacular. In terms of material, one has to ask what is a pair of Oscar winners like Gooding and Coburn doing in this movie? The movie is entertaining, but it certainly isn't what one would consider a challenging or meaty script.

The plot is predictable and filled with slapstick humor and average-grade jokes. Nonetheless, it has a nice feel and is fun to watch.

I was able to see this movie in a $2 theater, and recommend it as the ideal place to see this movie.

I wasn't quite sure where to rate this movie as our "review key" lists three popcorn boxes as "expecting a bomb but pleasantly surprised" and what I saw was exactly as I anticipated. However, it's a mediocre movie and mediocrity belongs in the middle so I will give it three popcorn boxes.

Exploring American culture through film

Five award-winning independent films capturing American popular culture will be shown from February through April at the College of Lake County. Film instructor Robert Coscarelli will host the series, which will be presented in conjunction with his humanities course. Films contain adult content and are not suitable for children. A recent annual event of the Assisi Animal Foundation honored some of the true heroes of the 9-11 tragedies.

The organization was proud to meet and give its thanks in person to some of those men, who along with their trained search/rescue dogs immediately went to the site of the attacks to help locate and rescue survivors and victims.

Sgt. Dale Warke and Officer Joe Paulfrey from Lebanon Illinois, along with their veteran team mate
Miranda, a German Shepherd were among the earliest on the scene to help. Miranda, along with Warke and Paulfrey received standing ovations at the Crystal Lake Country Club event hosted by the Assisi
Animal Foundation. Also honorees, were Chief George

Rabiela and paramedic Joseph Tavetas, both of the Chicago Fire Department who worked with their search canines "Moses" and "Bigfoot, " respectfully.

"The AAF," according to founder and director Lee Linklater, "originally planned to focus on its highly valued volunteers for its theme of the evening, but then gave these American Heroes 'top billing' with full approval of those same volunteers."

Linklater said,"These men are remarkable. They are the epitomy of the American spirit. They disregarded personal safety and all else to simply help their fellow citizens and we just wanted them to know how much we, and all their fellow Americans appreciated, and respect them!"

The Assisi Animal Foundation is a charitable not for profit organization which supports an award winning "non-kill" shelter in Crystal Lake. The AAF also, serves many area nursing and convalescent centers with a respected animal assisted therapy program, offers humane education visits to youngsters classes and groups, among other diverse programs.

SPORTS BARS

in Wauconda, plans on beginning its party starting at 3 p.m.

"We always get a big crowd, no matter who is playing. We have an extravagant buffet and giveaways," said Owner Duke Ivers.

The price, payable at the door, is $40.
Patty Byrne, owner of Ustabee's at 750 S.
Milwaukee Ave. in Gurnee, is hoping to make
Sunday a super one for at least one area person.

Byrne, who has owned the bar for three years, is holding a 50/50 raffle, with half the money raised going into the Robert A. Byrne Scholarship, a fund set up to help young mothers in the county earn their GED.

Byrne's son Robert passed away in August, and she established the scholarship in his name. "We are trying to raise $1,000 annually," she said.

Ustabee's will have a Super Bowl spread with free food, pizza and door prizes and drink specials as well.

If fans are looking for another good venue to catch the Super Bowl or any other sporting event for that matter, you might check out Bake's 'Sports Theme" Restaurant, 33251 N. Hwy. 45, Wildwood-Grayslake.

"We spend a lot of money on the satellites and cater to every big sporting event," said Tony Karlatiras, owner at Bake's for the past

"We always have big crowds for the big games and are expecting a good one again this year."

Bake's will also be offering patrons a food buffet. Drink specials will include $1.25. Various raffles will also take place. Prizes include Blackhawk and Bulls tickets, bicycles and a host of other sports memorabilia.

"It should be a busy day," said Bob Bode, one of the owners of Salutos, at 7680 Grand Ave., Gurnee. "We're going to dedicate the place to the Super Bowl."

Bode said Salutos would feature a free appetizer buffet, from beginning of the game until halftime, and then have a free pizza spread, with prizes and a raffle throughout the game."

And if fans are looking for a quieter setting, so to speak, and pizza is on your menu, check out Bill's Pub in Mundelein or Bill's Pub North in Third Lake.

"We've had some decent crowds for the Super Bowl over the years," said Janet Hill, General Manager at the Mundelein location. "But overall, we're just a family bar and restaurant."

Bill's Pub in Mundelein is located at 624 S. Lake St. Bill's Pub North is located at 19845 W. Washington.

Many fans will also choose to view the big game in the comforts in their own home. But if you're feeling antsy, there are plenty of area restaurants and taverns to choose from as their will undoubtedly be plenty of food, beverage and most of all, football.

DUI/fleeing and eluding

Raymond S. Hensley, 32, of 23522 126th St., Trevor, Wis., was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol and fleeing and eluding police on Jan. 22 at 11:01 p.m. on Rte. 83 at Kairy St.

An officer was dispatched to the state line to assist with a traffic stop. The first officer had observed a truck traveling northbound in the southbound lane. The vehicle was locked at 69 mph in a post 35-mph zone.

The first officer had to move to avoid an "impending crash" and turned around and attempted to stop the truck. The driver continued to accelerate attempting to flee from police.

Upon reaching the Illinois-Wisconsin border, the driver exited the vehicle, swore at the officer and asked what he was doing out of jurisdiction.

Hensley told the officer he would not perform field sobriety tests and went to his truck and tried to get the keys from the ignition. The officer approached and he began to walk east on 126th St.

Hensley refused to go back to Illinois to face charges and was told he'd be detained until officers from the Kenosha County Sheriff's Office arrived.

The second officer told Hensley of his pending charges in Illinois and that warrants would be sought if he refused extradition upon release from Kenosha County.

The following citations were prepared for Hensley in Illinois: speeding, improper lane usage, fleeing and eluding a police officer, failure to yield to an authorized emergency vehicle, operating an uninsured vehicle, DUI and failure to signal.

Giddy-up

t the ripe age of 21, Lake County's Colt Cabana is certainly a well-traveled man. But managing his time seems to be second nature for the Deerfield native. After four years of traveling around the country competing for numerous wrestling associations and organizations, Cabana finally got the chance to showcase his talents closer to home when Midwest C h a m p i o n s h i p Wrestling crashed into The College of Lake County Jan. 26.

The event was part of a fund-raiser with proceeds benefiting the CLC Athletic Department.

And Cabana, a.k.a. Scott Colton, made the most of his first MCW appearance by power bombing CM Punk off the top rope, leading to a pin fall.

Colt Cabana

"CM Punk and I have had this feud going on all over the country. So it was nice to bring it (our feud) to MCW," said Colton, currently a senior marketing major at Western Michigan University. "As far as wrestling, I try and pride myself on being athletic in the ring. The crowd also sees my excitement and that helps get them into it."

Which was exactly why MCW President and CEO Brian Zenner went after and got his man.

"Colt is very popular and a well-liked wrestler all over the country," said Zenner. "It was an easy pick-up with him being nationally known. Plus, we're trying to gather more local talent."

Cabana, who stands close to 6-feet, 2-inches and tips the scales at 234 pounds, had always wanted to become involved in professional wrestling.

"Since I was about 3, I've wanted to do this (wrestle)," he said shortly after his match. "I played college football my freshman year but decided to pursue wrestling. I knew there was a lot of training. But because I have wanted to do this for so long, it wasn't a matter of when to do it, but if I wanted to do it."

Cabana has held titles in the International Wrestling Federation and Professional Wrestling Federation's. But what about the MCW crown?

"If Brian wants to give me a title shot, I'll be ready," he said. "As long as the people and fans keep supporting me, if that leads to the gold, great!"

After graduating from WMU, Cabana plans to keep on wrestling while earning income to fund the education for his future children.

"That's one of my goals—to be able to send my kids to college using wrestling to fund it," he said.

"This was the most successful show yet.
We had over 400 fans with a lot of enthusiasm," said CLC Athletic Director Gene Hanson. "MCW is a great group to work with. We're hoping to host a couple of their shows a year."

Fans can catch Colt Cabana and the rest of the MCW Superstars at St. Patrick High School, located at Belmont and Austin in Chicago Feb. 2. Bell-time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased by calling 773-282-8844.

Libertyville High School's championship Pom Pon team will be raising funds for breast cancer awareness during the Wildcat varsity boy's basketball game with Wauconda at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 2. The LHS Poms, which won a fifth-place state trophy last year and has already qualified for super sectionals this season, will be dedicating their half-time dance performance to breast cancer awareness and collecting donations from fans. The Poms are also seeking support from local businesses and corporations.

The Grant Township Area Athletic Association (GTAAA) will be holding registration Feb. 9 and 16 from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. and Feb. 10 and 17 from noon-4 p.m. at the Grant Township Hall, Washington St., Ingleside. The registration is for youths ages 5-16 (as of July 31, 2002). Every child 9-and-older must supply an original birth certificate in order to register.

Sequoit wrestlers begin road to state

By JOE PRUSKI Correspondent

Desperate times call for desperate mea-

A6 / Lakeland Newspapers

While it's no secret the Antioch varsity wrestlers have struggled a little this season, redemption could be served Feb. 2 when the team travels to Warren for regional action.

Meanwhile, five Sequoit wrestlers placed at the North Suburban Conference wrestling meet held at Stevenson High School.

Among the place winners were junior Ryan Schuster (119), sophomore Taylor Pechauer (130), sophomore Sam Carden (145), senior Steve Oliver (189), and senior Pat Angell (215).

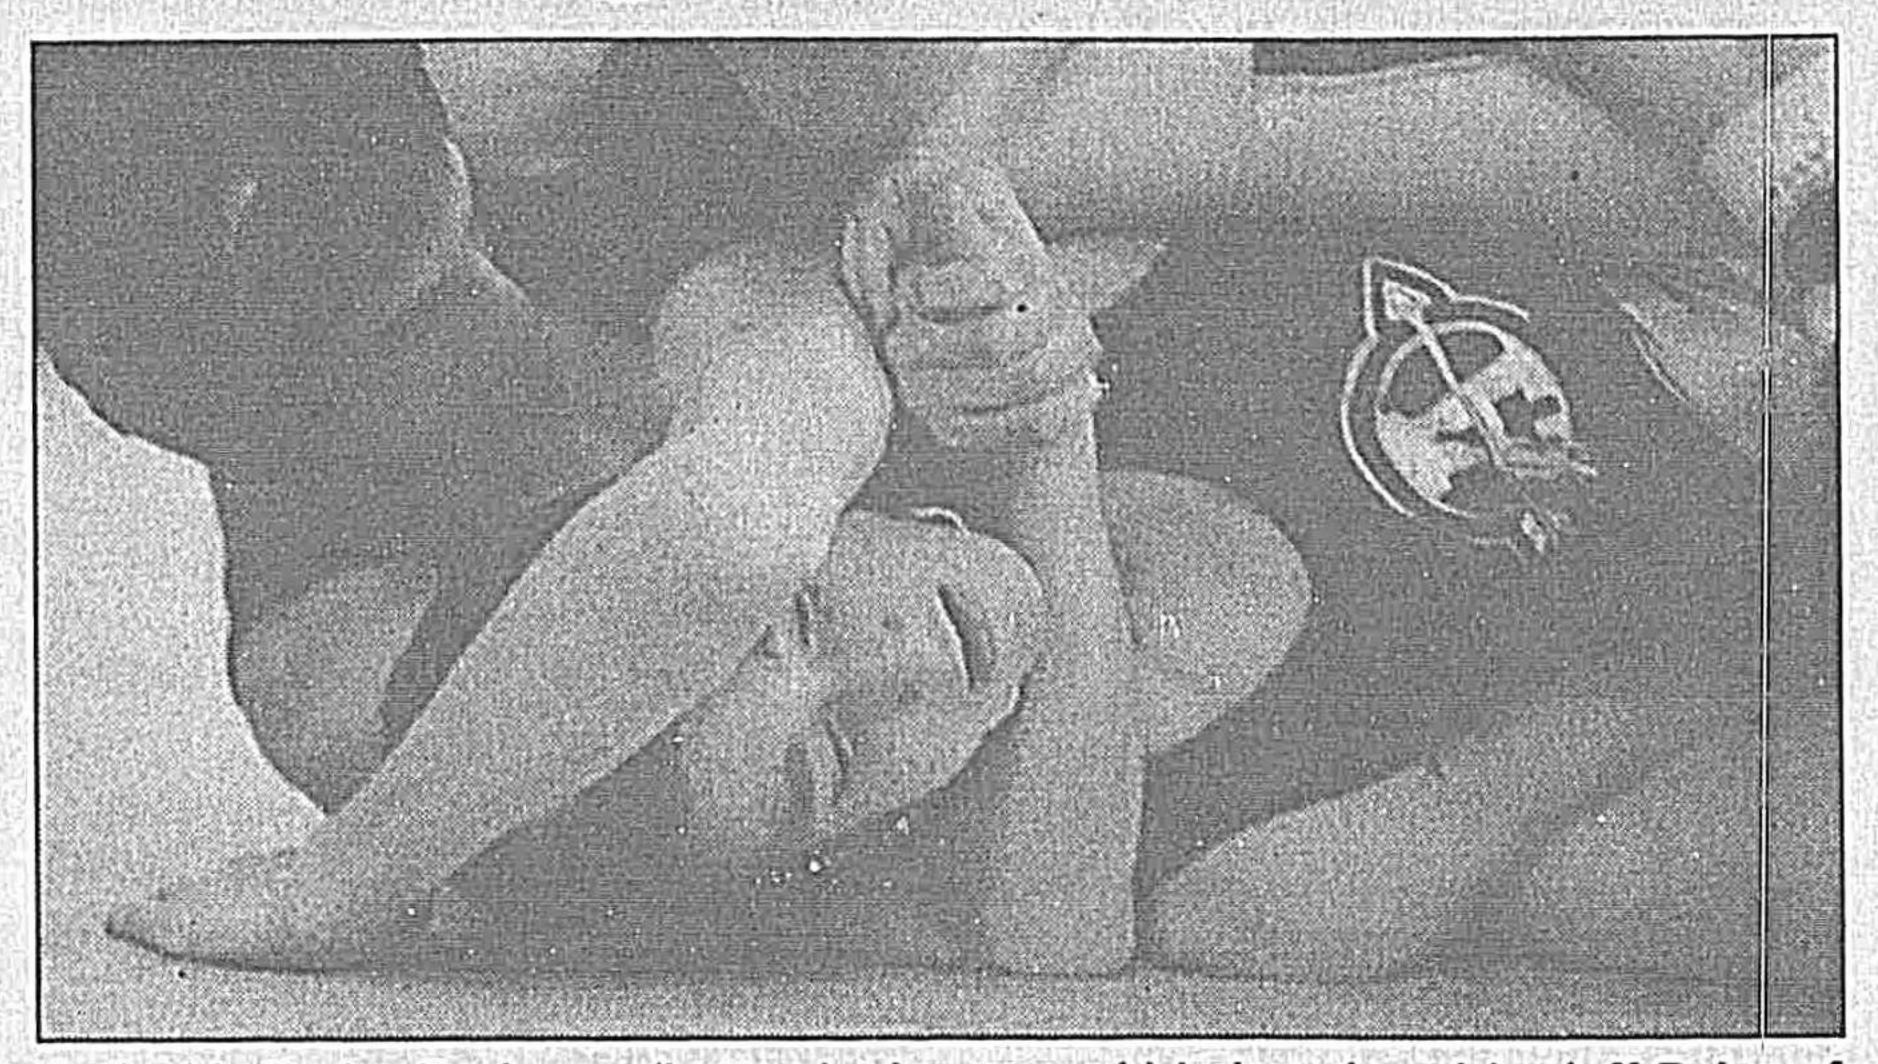

Although Antioch placed in five classes, no Sequoit fared better than third on the afternoon. Pechauer and Carden placed sixth, Schuster fifth, Oliver fourth, and Angell fared the best of any Sequoit, finishing third.

"I really wasn't happy with my performance," said Oliver. "I should have done better, I lost to Wauconda's Pat Nagowiecki. I had beaten him earlier."

Although Oliver wasn't as pleased with his performance as he had hoped, he was happy for the team.

"We had more kids place than I thought would, so we did good," said Oliver.
For the most part, Schuster echoed Oliver.

"We looked okay as a team at conference," said Schuster. "A couple of silly mistakes cost us some matches, but I thought we looked okay."

After a fifth-place showing at conference, Schuster is hoping to head into this weekend's regional on a high note.

"It looks like it's going to be a tough regional. Hopefully I can get a good seed for sectionals and make it to state," said Schuster.

To advance to sectionals you must finish one of the top three spots in the regional.

Both Libertyville High School and Grant

High School fared well in conference. Libertyville took home six first place finishers whereas Grant had four.

Antioch will compete in the Warren regional at Almond Campus. First-round matches begin at 10 a.m. with finals slated for 6 p.m.

Other teams competing include North Chicago, Grayslake, Round Lake, Zion-Benton, Waukegan and Grant.

Antioch Shotokan seeks gold at state meet

After winning over 15 medals in last year's tournament, Antioch Shotokan Karate is looking for more of the same this year.

ASK will be competing in the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Central Association Tournament, equivalent to an IHSA state tournament, at Lake Zurich High School Feb.

The tournament will feature competition in Kata (forms), Kobudo (weapons) and Kumite (fighting) in age levels ranging from five to adult.

The competition begins with Kata at 8:45 a.m. and will conclude at 3:30 p.m. with Kumite.

Other area schools scheduled to compete are Focus Martial Arts in Lake in the Hills, Glencoe's Pride Dojo and the Traditional Karate-Do Organization from Mount Prospect, the host of the tournament.

This year, 20 ASK students are scheduled to compete, including Krystal Mason, age 10, Efrain Ontiveras, 7, Sandy Hanson, 60, Kelsey Maldonado, 6, Graham Conners, 16 and Ian Calvert, 12.

Mason, Hanson, Maldonado, Conners and Calvert all medaled in last year's tournament. In fact, Hanson won the gold in all three events.

"We had a lot of state champions last year," said Sensei Anna Conners, who won a gold medal last year in Kata. "We usually bring home at least 15 medals. And I expect Sandy to win all three again."

The tournament is a qualifier for the regional competition, which will also be held at Lake Zurich High School on Apr. 20-21. The regional serves as a qualifier for the national competition in Salt Lake City.

The tournament is also a prep for the Junior Olympics in Knoxville, Tenn.

"We'll probably have a lot of people going to the Junior Olympics this year because it's so close," said Conners.

On a related note, ASK's annual awards banquet will be held at Maravela's in Fox Lake on Mar. 17 from 12-4 p.m. The cost is $17 per adult and $11 per child. A buffet style dinner with choice of entrees, special awards, raffles and silent auctions will all be held. For more information, call 847-395-5425.

Antioch rolls to third

By virtue of a sixth-place finish in the North Suburban conference meet, held at Bertrand Lanes in Waukegan, Antioch finished the season in third place with 77 total points, one point ahead of Lake Forest and four points behind second place Warren. Libertyville finished first with 87 team points.

The top individual finisher for the Sequoits was Susie Martz (6th, 1,006). She was followed by Rachel DeBoer (17th, 952), Jackie Feldman (21st, 933) and Susan Carlson (33rd, 830).

Katie Lyons (45th, 522) and Meghan Thomas (47th, 287) also competed in limited action.

Antioch, led by head coach Steve Haenchen, will next compete in the Warren sectional at Bertrand Lanes on Feb. 2. The first round is set to begin at 9 a.m.

Other teams scheduled to compete include Buffalo Grove, Grant, Lake Forest, Libertyville, North Chicago, Stevenson, Vernon Hills, Warren and Zion-Benton.

The state meet will be held on Feb. 8-9 at Cherry Bowl in Rockford.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DMV doldrums

There have been many media reports criticizing George Ryan's operation of the Secretary of State's Office. I believe some attention should be given to Jesse White's operation of the same office. I recently took a friend to the Waukegan Driver's License facility to get a photo I.D. at opening time. The lines were horrendous. We waited in line for a half hour before being told that the computer was down and no one could be served. We then drove to the Libertyville testing station, same horrendously long lines. Waited in line for several hours before being told the computer was also down. This is from White's operation of the office. A public official who broke the law by giving away over 100,000.00 of our tax money to state employee for a dubious training program which no one can find records of in violation of state law. His private secretary who alleges a personal relationship with White can also not answer to questions as to what happened to our tax dollars. White's new campaign signs should say to the public, "bend over, here comes Jesse." My friend after waiting one half of a day never did get his I.D.

Waukegan Mayor Drew's death shocks city

Paramedics called to home of first-term mayor at 4 a.m.

By DENYS BUCKSTEN County Editor

Waukegan Mayor Dan Drew died early Wednesday morning at Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan, only 10 months into his first term of office.

Mr. Drew, 53, leaves a wife, Peggy, and four grown children.

Reports from city officials are that Mr. Drew, a diabetic, went into a diabetic seizure at home and Waukegan Fire Department paramedics were called to the home.

Paramedics worked on Mr. Drew inside the home for some time, but the mayor reportedly lapsed into full arrest. He was rushed to Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan at 4:20 a.m. and died about an hour later.

His totally unexpected death of the congenial, laid-back mayor left a pall of sadness at city hall this morning as the news raced around the city, based in part on reports on Chicago radio stations.

Kelly Link, in charge of the Mayor's Office of Special Events, said "it was a very heartfelt, saddened mood around here (Wednesday) morning. It came so much right out of the blue."

Link said she worked with Mr. Drew for nine years, since he was the city treasurer. Lynch said there were no indications that he was having any problems in dealing with the long-term health problem of diabetes.

The city staff was scheduled to meet regarding Mr. Drew's succession on Thursday. On Feb. 4 the Waukegan City Council is expected to discuss the matter.

North Chicago Mayor Bette Thomas, who took office last May at the same time Mr. Drew did in Waukegan, expressed shock and sorrow over her fellow mayor's passing.

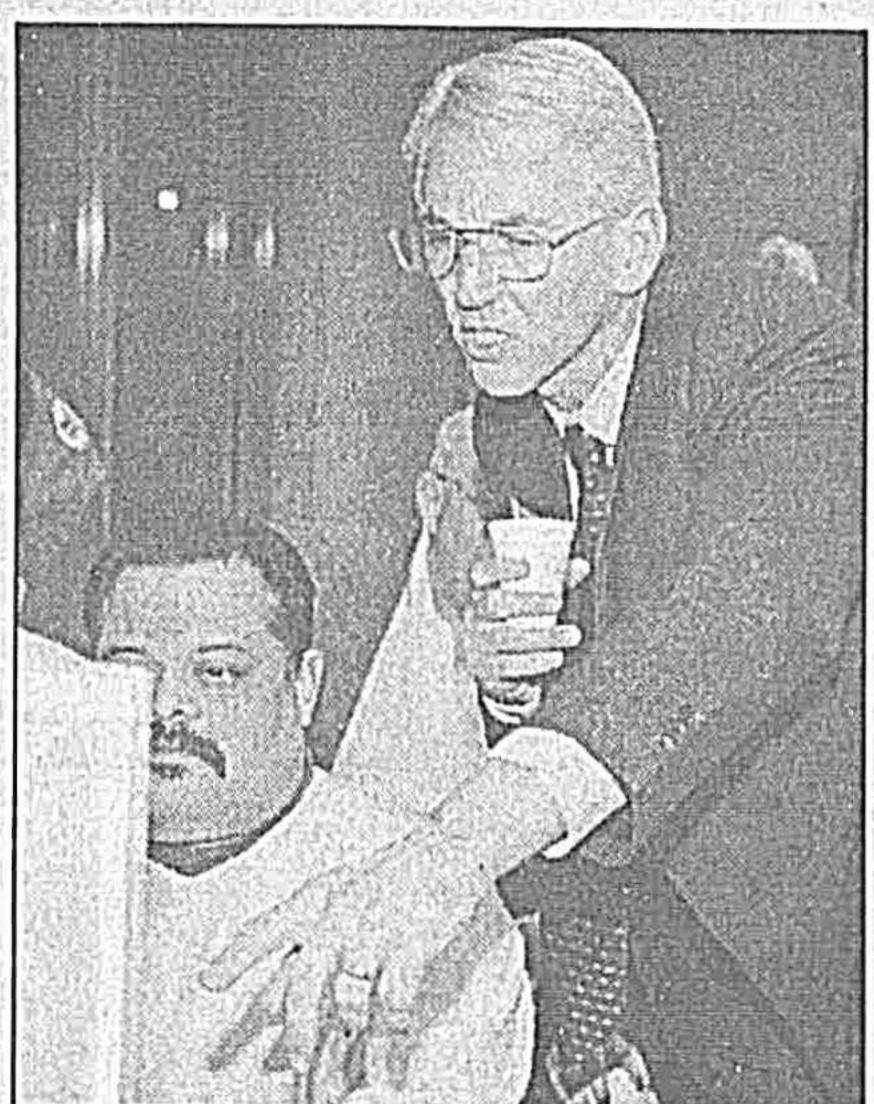

"I am just devastated and in shock. I just met him as a new mayor and we did a (promotional) movie together, and we hit it off right away. We had some great conversations and shared our concerns about our cities."

Mr. Drew's service to the City of Waukegan spanned 23 years. He was city collector from 1979 to 1985; and city treasurer from 1993 to 2001. He narrowly defeated Newton Finn for mayor in 2001.

"An entire city is in shock and mourning," said Finn, a Waukegan attorney. "We will keep Mayor Dan Drew in our hearts and his family in our prayers as we recommit ourselves to the hopes and dreams that he had for Waukegan. He was a great gentleman, in both public and private life, and he set a standard of honor and decency for all of us to emulate."

Prior to his becoming a public servant, Mr. Drew owned his own business, Dan Drew Oil Company, and later served as customer service manager for Olson Oil Company in Waukegan.Mr. Drew, a Catholic, was an active member of St. Anastasia Church in Waukegan.

Dan Patch Jr. of Peterson Funeral Home, 408 N. Sheridan Road, Waukegan, said that tentative plans are that Mr. Drew will be waked on Friday, or possibly Saturday night.

Zgonina to play in Super Bowl

Carmel High School grad to make second Super Bowl appearance in three years

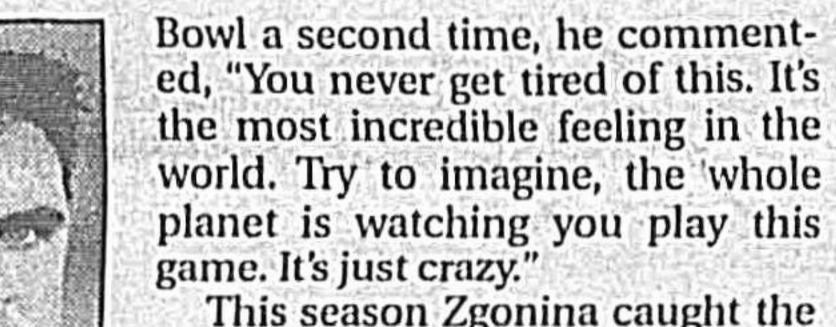

By ROBERT SCHROEDER

For the second time in his career, Jeff Zgonina of the St. Louis Rams, and a former Carmel High School standout, is playing in a Super Bowl.

The game, scheduled for a 5:18 p.m. kickoff Sunday, will be played in the Super Dome in New

This season has been a breakout season for Zgonina, generally relegated to reserve status and mop-up duties as a defensive tackle. Inserted into games primarily as a run-stopper, he led the team in tackles for loss this season.

When asked about going to the Super

This season Zgonina caught the attention of Fox sportcaster John Madden, who humorously referred to the tackle's massive calf and ankle development as "cankles."

Zgonina started every game this year but three, sitting out with a broken thumb. Against the Green Bay Packers, he hyper-extended his elbow, requiring constant treatment during the week and a big brace worn during the game against the Philadelphia Eagles.

"It's killing me right now (after the Eagles game), but they're going to have to strangle me to keep me from playing the next game. It didn't get any worse this game, but I'll get more treatment during the week."

NFL players playing in the Super Bowl are allowed six tickets each, with a maximum of 15 tickets if other players don't use their allotment. "I told my mom that I can only get tickets for my sisters, uncles and aunts. Cousins, they're on their own," Zgonina chided.

"I'll probably be maxing out my cell phone minutes to find any tickets left over. Most of the family arrives Thursday in New Orleans. My mom loves it down there, but keep her away from Bourbon St."

As a nine-year veteran, Zgonina appreciates how fortunate he is to be going to the Super Bowl for the second time. "It's kind of a fairy tale. I'm enjoying the success while we have it. Who knows where I'll be next year (with the expansion draft)?

Maybe I'll be re-united with my former coach in Houston (Dom Capers, Pittsburgh Steelers defensive coordinator and head coach of the Carolina Panthers). But for now. I'm only worried about the New England Patriots. That other stuff will shake out. Besides, I need another ring for my other hand."

If Zgonina turns out another strong performance like against the Eagles, he may just get his wish.

Editor's Note: Robert Schroeder, General Manager of Lakeland Newspapers, was a Carmel High School teammate of Zgonina's, both graduating in 1988, and together attended Purdue University.

Plans for Squaw Creek watershed are a go

By JEFF ZACHARY Staff Reporter

Over 50 stakeholders crowded into the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) office to begin a year of monthly meetings on the future of the Squaw Creek/Long Lake watershed.

The watershed area includes the Round Lake area communities including Hainesville.

The headwaters of Squaw Creek are located in the vicinity of Gilmer Road and Route 176.

The SMC is conducting a $95,000 watershed plan to look at anticipated growth in the area, as well as existing problems such as flooding and environmental concerns,

The goal of the watershed planning process is to offer stakeholders an opportunity to have a say in how the watershed will be managed.

The meeting was facilitated by Gary Schaefer, president of Hey and Associates, Inc., who went around the room giving everyone a chance to voice their concerns or make suggestions about the watershed.

Round Lake village trustee John Huebner said his major concern was that nobody regulates the level of the lakes in the watershed.

"I've seen Round Lake increase by 15 and a quarter inches in eight hours and that is unacceptable," said Huebner.

Hainesville Mayor Ted Mueller said he has a lot of wetlands in his village and wondered about the feasibility of making them recreational. "We have some huge Bass in our ponds," said Mueller.

Round Lake Village Administrator Chris Miller said he wanted the agency to improve communication by making the data it collects available to all municipalities.

Some people voiced their concerns about identifying critical open space and environmental problems.

After all the suggestions and concerns were written down, each individual stake-holder rated what he felt were his five main concerns.

The information will be analyzed by SMC Executive Director Ward Miller, watershed engineer Jason Obergfell, Lake County Board member Bonnie Thomson Carter and other members of the agency to be discussed at the next meeting tentatively scheduled for the third Wednesday in February.

A watershed is the land area that drains to a single body of water such as a stream, lake, wetland or estuary.

Forum Saturday in Antioch

By DENYS BUCKSTEN County Editor

For the first time, Antioch, Avon, Grant and Lake Villa townships are combining efforts to host a "Meet the Candidates Forum", this Saturday.

The forum is scheduled to run from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., at the Antioch Senior Center, 817 Holbeck Drive, in Antioch. The center is one block west of Route 83, just north of Orchard Street.

The forum is for candidates in the March 19 primary election. Michelle Day, precinct chairman for Lake Villa Township, said there will be a moderator and each candidate will have three minutes to give a prepared speech, and then time to answer questions.

The newly created 62nd district for state representative will have all three candidates: Robert Churchill (LakeVilla); Ed Walters (Grayslake) and Al Wysocki (Round Lake Park).

Day said "this is the first year of a combined forum. It started out with Bob Powers, the Avon Township Republican Township Chairman, suggesting it. We've been working on this since before Christmas and have sent out releases to the village halls and the newspapers."

Audubon Society | Habitat invites look will meet Feb.4

The Lake County Audubon Society will meet Monday, Feb. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at Butterfield School, 1441 W. Lake St., near Butterfield Road in Libertyville.

The meeting will present a double program. "Bluebirds in Lake County" will comprise the first part of the evening. Walt Sivertsen has been the administrator of the Bluebird Monitoring Program in Lake County since 1997. Walt will give a brief report on the bluebird monitoring during 2001 and an overview of the nesting habits and the bluebird trails in Lake County.

An opportunity to build a birdhouse will be part two of the meeting. Bring a hammer and screwdriver and build a birdhouse to take home. Cost of the kit will be $3 to Audubon members who bring a copy of the newsletter. Non-members are invited to join in the project for a cost of only $6. Second kits if available will be $6 for members and non-members alike. These are quality kits that produce a sturdy birdhouse that will last for years.

The public is welcome to attend this special program.

53 loses ground in race for roads

mpatient and frustrated commuters, yearning for the Route 53 extension to provide another north-south travel option, are in competition with two other high profile, politically charged road construction proposals.

Tollway leaders continue to push for the southern extension of Interstate 355 to link Bolingbrook and New Lenox. Plans for a 33-mile-long outer beltway connecting Interstate 80 and 88 are being both hailed and reviled. The beltway highway, serving the far reaches of western collar county suburbs, is in the corridor preservation stage.

Beltway proponents want to protect the corridor from commercial development while engineers study the project. Identifying the beltway corridor now would prevent complications experienced in upgrading Highways 59 and 47, which have been messed up a long time if you travel that way.

Interestingly, controversial Route 53 once had a protected corridor. Right-of-way was being purchased. Remnants of the route still can be seen in Munde lein. Approximately 20 years ago, Route 53 "protection" was lifted, presumably because plans for the connection from Lake-Cook Road to a point south of Grayslake had been shelved.

I-355 is a good example of how political considerations transcend transportation needs in Illinois. Gov. George Ryan has been noncommittal on I-355. His support is vital because the governor's approval is required by law to sell bonds. Ryan also has been noncommittal on Route 53, much to the chagrin of citizen activists and economic boosters. The beltway plan reportedly has been met with favor by House Speaker Hastert, a resident of Yorkville, which would be served by the cornfield transportation colossus.

On a probability scale, I-355 rates the best chance of getting done in the relatively immediate future because it is fairly short (12.5 miles) and financially feasible. Third airport proponents like I-355 because it would deliver passengers to Peotone. Score that as another plus.

Where does that leave Route 53? Perhaps farther away than the 10 years envisioned by even ardent supporters.

10 years envisioned by even ardent supporters.

From the vantage of political clout, I-355 and the beltway have more going than Route 53. The sad thing is that, even after 40 years of effort to get the project going, Route 53 has lost ground.

Maybe some future governor will jump on the 53 bandwagon, but until then the controversial highway plan will be playing second fiddle. Or third fiddle.

Fresh start after nightmare

t will take a long time, but the first steps are being taken to dig the troubled Round Lake Unit School District out of a financial mess so great that shock waves have impacted neighboring districts and the state educational apparatus in Springfield.

What is going to happen is that the General Assembly will create a financial authority to manage money matters for the K-12 district of more than 6,000 students that has slid approximately $3 million further into debt while various options were studied over the past several years. Officials of neighboring districts are relieved that dissolution of the district with Round Lake students being parceled out in all directions won't happen.

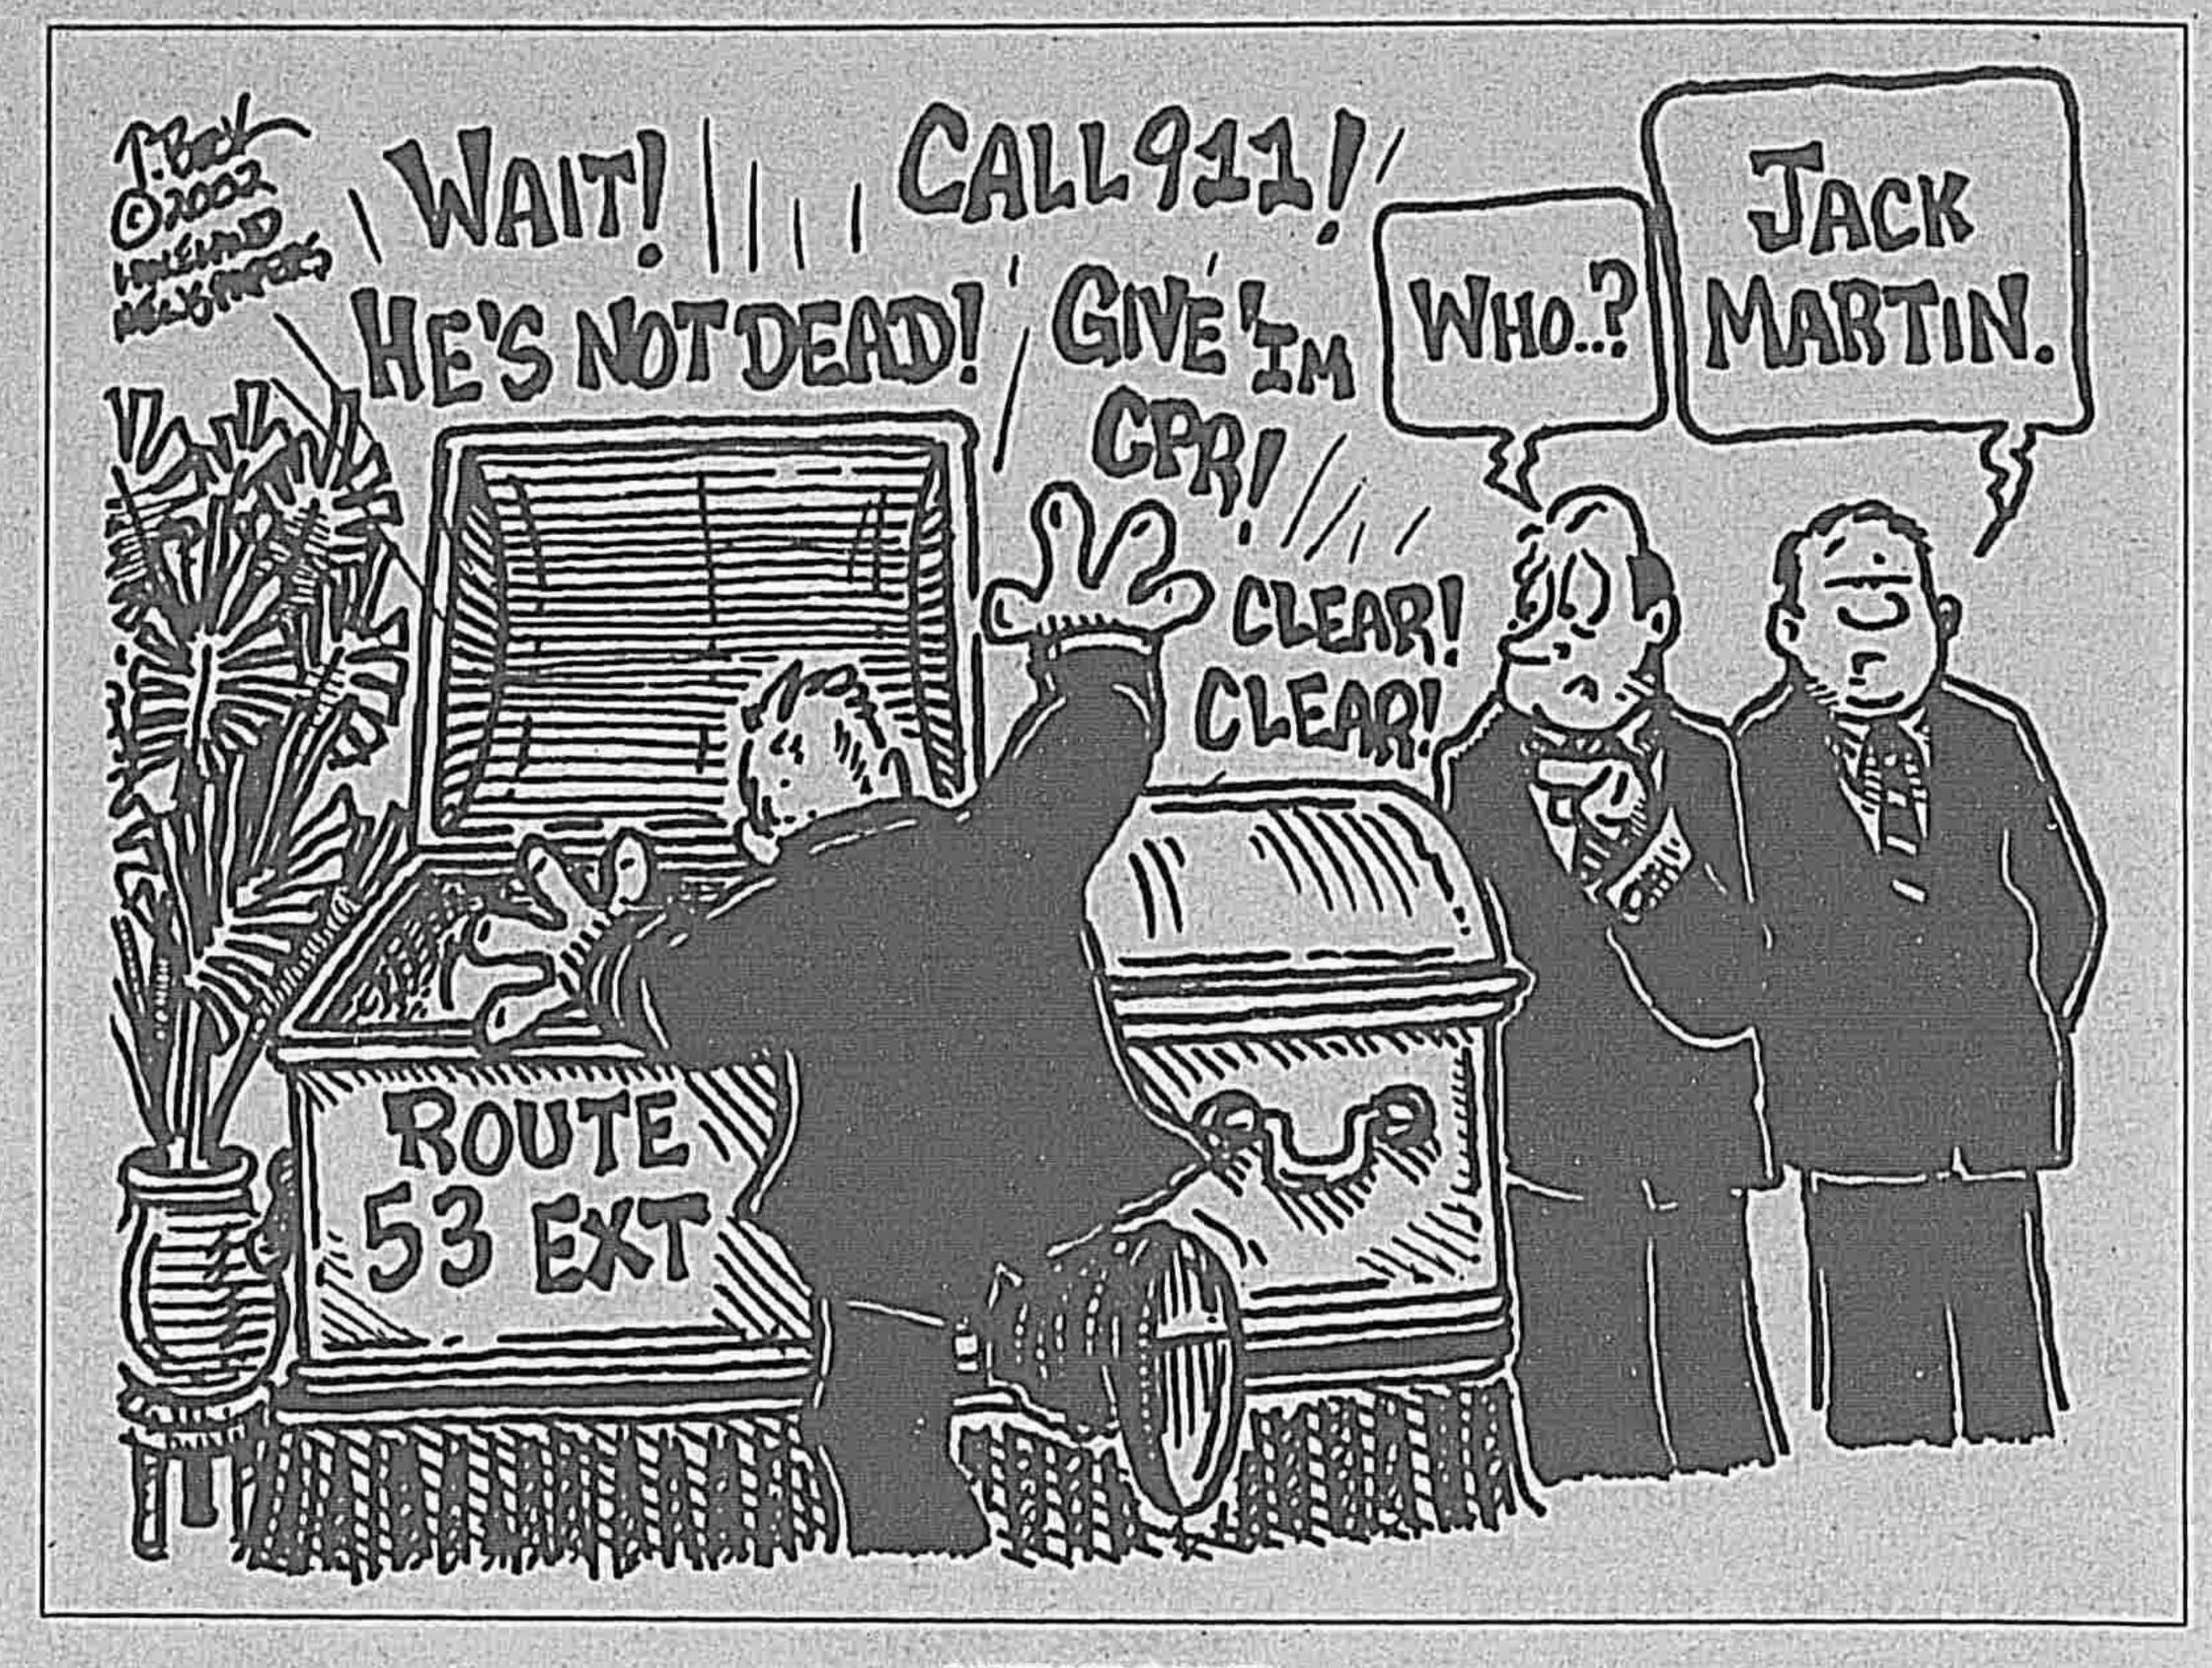

A state appointed oversight panel, which recommended that the state take control of District 116's checkbook, decided that financial and associated problems will be kept local. This is as it should be.

Oversight Chairman Marc Spivak likens the change in financial management to a "fresh start." And so it is. The large district has a $46 million budget. That's a lot of money. The new managers should be able to pay bills and cut into a $14 million short term debt and $40 million long-term obligation with careful spending.

Board of education members and staff will be able to concentrate on education, something they haven't been able to do in a long time. The financial authority will deal with spending matters, renegotiate union contracts and enact tax increases if necessary.

Without a doubt, union leaders will chafe under the new financial management. Teachers union president Kim Kearby already has announced that the formation of the financial authority will be fought. Union activists will find out in a hurry that dealing with the financial authority—make that State of Illinois, is a lot different than dealing with local school board members.

By creating an authority to run the finances of District 116, the state avoids pressure for a "bail out." District 116 now has a direction and a chance to breathe again. As we said, it will take a long time to dig out of the financial quagmire, but everyone is going to benefit.

VIEWPOINT

Farm museum plan needs some help

ay Rockenbach is a man with a plan—and a dream. A retired main street hardware merchant, Rockenbach wants to preserve a period in time when farm families formed the the bedrock of Lake County economic, social and political life.

Rockenbach is out to create a working farm museum that would freeze in time an era when hundreds of small farms dotted the Lake County countryside—mid-20th Century covering an approximately quarter of a centurey ending in the early 1950s.

"I'm not talking about pioneer days or new millennium agri-business. I think the period when tractors were replacing horses needs to be commemorated because that was the time farm families helped build communities as we know them today." Towns like Libertyville, Grayslake, Antioch, Wauconda and Mundelein developed with main streets lined by small businesses.

The "plan" involves recreating a farmstead where children and adults could see hands-on farming practices— cows being milked, horses pulling a wagon, chicks being born, pigs squealing in a pen, corn being cultivated and hay being mown.

"Wouldn't that be something?
Wouldn't that be wonderful?"
mused Rockenbach, who grew up on a farm in Vernon Township that now is part of Lincolnshire. A large family, the Rockenbachs were known far and wide for modern farming practices, civic service and community involvement. A nephew, Doug, owns Rockenbach Chevrolet, one of the nation's largest auto dealerships.

Ray said what he's looking far to form a mid-century working farm museum already exists. He's convinced the Ray Lake Farm Forest Preserve is the idea site—well located in Fremont Township (rural Mundelein), right size in tillable acreage with buildings in relatively good condition.

"The Ray Lake Farm has everything that typifies family farming as was known 50 years ago—dairy barn, chicken coop, hog pen, corn crib, a garden plot. The farmstead is a snapshot of a time that no longer exists," Rockenbach declares enthusiastically.

Besides, he points out quickly, on the more than 400 acre layout that the county acquired two years ago, is a modern stable that could be the center of an equestrian concession and an estate home that could be turned into a restaurant or bed and breakfast. The wooded and wetlands portions of the farm easily could become nature study areas and overnight camp sites for youth groups.

The key to translating the plan into action, according to Rocken-bach, is forming a charitable foundation to lease portions of the farm from the Forest Preserve District and set about creating the working farm museum with private contributions. Forming the foundation is the next step in turning the dream into a plan.

At this point, county officials have expressed interest. "They're waiting to hear more. Anyone interested in lending a hand?" Rockenbach asked wistfully.

Ram conversion

After the Chicago Bears, the St. Louis Rams could be the most popular pro football team in Lake County. That's because Carmel High's Jeff Zgonina is a starting defensive tackle for the New Orleans-bound Rams and has a strong local cheering contingent. In his ninth year as a professional, Zgonina could be sporting his second Super Bowl ring in three years if all goes well Sunday. That will put him half way toward the Super Bowl record of four rings acquired by another Carmel alum, Mike Wagner, who garnered all the jewelry as a defensive standout for the Pittsburgh Steelers 20 years ago.

At least that's the way it is in Grandson Tommy, going on 2, has discovered how to amuse himself and alarm the neighborhood—in one swoop. He scoops up an ignition fob from the key dish and activiates the panic system. Tom's record is three cars tooting and blinking at the same time.

We are in a recession—how long will it last?

ince the official declaration that we are in a recession, there is increasing concern about how long it will last and what can be done to jump-start the economy.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan had been called an economic guru for his leadership during the decade of massive growth. Now, there are many "after his hide," blaming him for the stagnant economy.

They all like to play the blame game. I don't know what more Greenspan could have done. He's reduced the interest rates to about ground-zero. Except for a spur of automobile buying because dealers were offering "no-interest bargains," overall consumer confidence hasn't perked at all.

When times are flush, any president will take the credit for it. So will Congress, and governors and state legislatures. But, when times are tough, "it's not their fault."

The truth is probably somewhere in the middle. They probably don't deserve credit for a robust economy nor should they be fully blamed when the economy turns sour. I try to simplify things. In plain terms, consumers gain confidence in the economy when they fell that their future is secure. They'll spend, even more than they can afford,

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF. POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Funding becomes issue for March 19 races ow campaigns are financed is becoming an issue in a growing number of Lake County Board districts.

Incumbent Rep. Sandy Cole (R-Grayslake) has come out swinging, charging that her primary opponent, Bryan A. Gutraj, is utilizing nondistrict contributions. Cole branded Gutraj a "puppet."

Shirley Friedlander, owner of a secretarial service and a former chamber of commerce executive, has been promised support by Republican leaders to try and unseat incumbent Robert Sabonjian (D-Waukegan).

Tim Powell of Hainesville is highlighting the fact that his campaign is self-funded as he attempts to separate himself from the crowded GOP field in the newly created 16th District which includes part of the Round Lake area and rural Fremont Township. Powell, a retired deputy sheriff with 29 years service, is one of five candidates.

Veteran incumbent Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake) is making no secret of the fact that he regards his primary opponent, Don Bauer of Round Lake Park, as "a plant" who will be beholden to pro-development interests who want to surpress Leafblad, an outspoken supporter of controlled growth. Bauer's wife, Ila, is mayor of Round Lake Park.

Power plant foes

the village of Volo over plans for construction of an electrical generating plant. Supervisor Jim Keagle said opponents took advantage of a townshp forum to voice their opposition.

On the go

Roycealee J. Wood, one of Lake County's tireless civic workers, has an even busier schedule now that she's running for Regional Superintendent of Schools. Despite countless meeting commitment, campaigning for election now is top priority for Wood, who has been first assistant in the regional superintendent's office for eight years.

Something to do

County Board Chair Suzi Schmidt (R-Lake Villa), without a primary opponent, is keeping her campaign skills sharp by doing door-to-door canvassing for Rep. Sandy Cole (R-Grayslake) who is involved in a primary contest. Ditto for Rep. Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside) who is part of the field team aiding Rep. Judy Martini (R-Antioch). Martini has an opponent in the March 19 balloting. Schmidt, Carter, Cole and Martini share views on controlled growth and protection of the environment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

would like to express my admiration of the members of the Antioch Village Board. They have worked hard and made a scary-but correct-decision by turning down the Neumann Homes project.

Because of the Neumann Homes problem. I have taken the opportunity to talk to the mayor and trustees—on many occasions. I KNOW they take their responsibility very seriously. It is a big job to serve on the village board. Neumann Homes consumed great chunks of time while they also addressed the financial problems of the village, the numerous pending lawsuits, and the ongoing, never-ending, day-to-day business. They've had a full plate-and will have no hiatus even now since Wal Mart wants to come to town.

Thank you Mayor Taso Maravelas, Trustees Bob Caulfield, Wayne Foresta, Larry Hanson, Dorothy Larson, Scott Pierce and Barbara Porch.

I'd also like to acknowledge the support of many businesses in the community in fighting the Neumann Homes project. There is no argument that more development equals more customers. But our local entrepreneurs didn't decide to do business in Antioch to destroy the specialness of the village but rather because it is a high-quality community that appreciates its own uniqueness. Let's all make a real effort to support our local businesses.

SEEING

when they feel that "they can make it."

What do the consumers see? They see the president urging them to spend more to stimulate the economy. At the same time, they see major employers laying off thousands of employees. They see blue chip companies taking "big hits." It is not so easy for consumers to stand tall when all about them they see businesses "taking a fall."

Our last recession was in the early 80s. We came out of that one and zoomed for over 10 years. We hope that we can come out of this one as well. It may take longer. As the years go by, the manufacturing sector of our economy has dwindled. Many will blame the global economy and the shifting of so many manufacturing jobs to countries where products can be produced with cheap labor. Whatever the reason, it makes it tougher to rebound.

So, now we are more reliant on a service economy. In other words, our jobs service the needs of all of us. Some people like to call it the "McDonald's economy," where we have many jobs in the service sector, but many of the jobs are low-paying unskilled positions. Such an economy can slow the pace of recovery.

When the economy is slow to recovery, the role of government to meet its needs and responsibilities become strained, too.

It's a real Catch-22. As the markets decline and jobs are slashed, state sales tax and income tax revenues decline markedly. In plain terms, when times are tough, the state government is called upon to do more with less. A billion dollar surplus can disappear within a year during recessionary years.

When the times were good, many still complained that education wasn't "getting enough," creating an awesome burden on local property taxes to fund education. Again, with the disappearing manufacturing sector, the property tax burden is falling disproportionately. On residential properties. That's what makes it so tough, and there's not much more those taxpayers can bear.

This coming year isn't going to be an easy one for any governor. The big spending "bites" in the budget are always education and public assistance. By law, the legislature must pass a balanced budget. Each year, during the good times, the state's budget has increased. If revenue estimates are projected to what I think they will be, I can't foresee any spending increases without the state facing a major deficit. There's nothing rosy about the state's short term fiscal future.

Let's hope that there is some light at the end of the tunnel. It is a fact that the state of the economy runs in cycles. We have been riding the "high tide." It was bound to crash, even before the acts of terrorism. We'll ride the tide. We'll bounce back. We'll do it together. The consumers, commerce, industry, government, and all. There will be a stretch of touch times for many, but the economy will come back. And the sooner the better.

Trust is the key

Who can we trust these days? Our society seems to recommend that we trust no one. We're always hearing stories about people being victimized by others. Teachers who inflate grades. Bankers who cheat. Cler-. gy who abuse children. Doctors who act selfishly rather than on their patients' behalf. We're a nation of verifiers and second opinion seekers trying desperately to use our own limited resources to ensure that we and our loved ones are treated fairly and competently.

I believe trust is the product of relationships. We're more likely to have faith and confidence in family members and friends than in people who are new and strange. Trust and relationships grow on a foundation of past experiences in which fidelity and honor and consistency have been tested with time and repetition and constancy.

Yet building relationships can be difficult in a society that emphasizes immediacy and convenience. We change loyalties easily as a result of logistics for finances or time constraints, making us less and less likely to develop and nurture long-lasting relationships.

I am a doctor. I want my patients to believe that I am working for their welfare. I want them to trust me. I want to have longlasting relationships that build foundations of trust. This issue is a challenge for me and all professionals. And yet if this most difficult of problems can be overcome, my patients will be the primary beneficiaries. Their trust will be rewarded with a peace-ofmind and security that their physician their guide and counselor—is working for them with their best interests as his primary concern.

Kerch wrote: "Few of us, it seems, would be willing to hand over our pets even in exchange for $1 million cash.

Fluid in a child's ears can have lasting effects on school progress

Hi Dr. Singer,

Our son has reading problems right now. He is 12. When he was little, he was diagnosed with having fluid in his ears and we had to have several sets of tubes put in. He had chronic allergies and sinus problems which we understand had something to do with the fluid in the ears. The fluid lasted for quite some time before we realized anything was going on. He was a late talker because of this. He also has problems with saying certain sounds to this day! My question for you is this: can fluid in the ears cause a problem later with reading? Does this have anything to do with the processing program you have talked about in the past? We would like to get help for our son, but have tried the tutors and other large learning groups and it doesn't seem to be helping. He doesn't have fluid in his ears now. Is it too late at 12? Any thoughts? N.N.

Dear N.N.,

Fluid in the ears as a small child most certainly can and does affect a child's ability to blend sounds, understand the beginnings of language and ultimately read. Yes, this is the crux of where auditory processing problems come from. If you can imagine trying to hear and learn your sounds under water, you will begin to get a picture of how these kids are functioning. The problem is that if this is happening repeatedly in the formative years, these kids naturally stop trying to absorb the world through their ears and begin to use their visual skills more because it is the only sensory skill open to them at the time. This is called compensation and all human beings do it. That is, using stronger skills to compensate for weaker ones. Through sheer amount of usage and practice with the good sensory skill, the weak sensory skill becomes weaker and weaker. It would be like not using a particular set of muscles for a long time. Eventually, they would atrophy and become unusable. What happens with reading is that, due to the fluid block, the parts of reading or the sounds, never become solid. The child gets fixated on the parts of words as opposed to the words. Therefore, reading stays choppy and never gets fast enough for comprehension to happen. This can be true even after the block is cleared since it occurred for a period of time and the child got used to doing it that way. Since the parts are slow, the lack of speed of reading effects the comprehension. In other words, if the parts come slowly, by the time the child reaches the end of a sentence or the end of a paragraph, it doesn't make sense to him or her anymore because it took him or her such a long time to get there. The bigger problem is that if it goes on long enough, eventually many children with these kinds of problems will turn away from school and reading altogether.

His problems with sounds also do not surprise me. To understand this better, I'd like you to think about what a deaf person sounds like when they speak. Deaf people learn and understand what someone says primarily by reading their lips or using their eyes to pick up what was said. Usually, any sound spoken by a deaf person does not sound as clear as if said by a hearing person. I believe that this is because when lip reading, one cannot see the actual enunciation of a sound and therefore, the sound is not translated clearly to the deaf person. I believe that kids with fluid in the ears function very much the same way. They read lips when they cannot use their ears well. If this happens a lot, they become used to it and do it often. Particularly suspect to me, is the sound of "R." If you look at the way that sound looks when someone says it, it looks like it should sound muted, which is exactly how many of my client's sound. Not surprisingly, most of these kids had problems with fluid in the ears when they were young. They learned to say what the sound of "R" looked like rather than what it actually sounded like.

The good news in all of this is that I would bet that your child has excellent visual processing abilities. Throughout the time that your child was not absorbing things through his ears, his eyes were probably working overtime to absorb things. This overuse creates incredible skills, however, it is better to have balanced good skills that some strong and some weak. It creates much less stress and allows the child to absorb things more easily.

The even better news is that all of these kinds of skills can be improved significantly through targeted, specific practice. It's also important for you to know that it really isn't a hard process to bring these skills up to par. Without targeted practice, however, those skills will probably always be behind. It is definitely not too late now. In fact, it's the perfect age and the perfect time to get him caught up.

A tomato a day keeps the oncologist away.

That may not be entirely true but it is true that tomatoes, along with many other foods, have been proven to have cancer fighting properties.

In fact, studies have shown that just five servings of fruits and vegetables daily can prevent as much as 20 percent of all cancers. The cancer fighting benefits of proper nutrition apply to those who have been diagnosed and treated for cancer as well.

But keeping proper nutritional habits can be very complicated, especially when challenged with the rigors of traditional cancer treatment. If you add in complications from an unhealthy liver, renal system, or diabetes, the proper roadmap for nutrition gets even a little more gray.

That is why consulting a nutritionist can be just what the doctor ordered. Your one-hour consultation is a phone call away. "Don't Let Your Smile Become Extinct" will be the message during National Children's Dental Health Month in February to encourage children to take good care of their teeth so that they last a lifetime.

The month-long campaign focuses on the importance of good dental health and why it should begin at an early age. It targets children and parents, who play a critical role in promoting good dental habits at home.

In conjunction with the campaign, the Chicago Dental Society (CDS) is also sponsoring dental activities from Feb. 4 to 16 at Health World, a hands-on health and safety museum in northwest suburban Barrington.

The CDS is also providing free toothbrushes and toothpaste, and educational materials to Chicago aea schools — hoping to reach thousands of children in the area.

"We want parents and children to know that if they take proper care of the teeth through regular brushing and check-ups at the dentist — they will last a lifetime," said Paul Landman, DDS, president of the Chicago Dental Society and a dentist in Chicago. "Teaching children good dental habits at an early age will have a tremendous payoff and contribute to the child's overall health."

Dr. Landman explained that parents should encourage good dental habits at an early age for two primary reasons: To clean the child's gums and teeth and to promote this as a daily routine and lifetime practice.

For more information about NCDM, call the CDS at (312) 836-7300.

Even at low speeds the neck is subject to strong forces caused by the sudden acceleration or deceleration of the car. So what seems like a minor traffic accident can turn into pure misery down the road. Whiplash symptoms may not develop until hours, days, weeks or even years after the initial injury. Therefore, it's important to get a thorough chiropractic examination immediately after the accident. Chiropractic care can speed up your body's natural healing process and most importantly reduce further injury to your spine.

CLChoops splits games

By JOE PRUSKI Correspondent

Joe Maitland led the Lancer men's basketball team in a losing effort last Thursday as CLC dropped another Skyway Conference contest.

The loss keeps them in last place in the conference standings with a 0-5 record.

Maitland scored a team-high 21 points while also leading the way in rebounding with 11. The double-double adds to Maitland's streak of five consecutive games in which he has posted a double-double.

"Joe's (Maitland) been really strong for us, he's our only consistency," said CLC head coach Shawn Chism. "He's really been leading us lately."

A strong Moraine Valley wound up holding off CLC 66-63, despite a spirited effort by the Lancers in the games final minutes.

"We just ran out of gas," said Chism. "The guys get tired because they're on the court so much."

The CLC team is down to a depleted roster consisting of only seven players.

Meanwhile, the women's team improved their record in conference to 4-1 by defeating Moraine Valley Community College, 74-71, CLC began the game strong with an early first half lead of 12 points. Guard Stacie Peterson, who connected a number of three point baskets early on, led the charge.

However, the lead slipped away in the second half due to a strong run by Moraine Valley late in the games final minutes. A Karen Davidson lay-up with 12 seconds left ended the Moraine Valley run, and their chances to pull out a victory.

Peterson led the Lancers with a game-high 23 points while Stephanie Cripps added 14. Leading scorer and rebounder Chanel Jones contributed with yet another double-double for the Lancers. She finished with 17 points while pulling down 13 boards. Jones currently averages a double- double per game.

With the win CLC advanced 9-12 overall for the year while improving to 4-1 in conference play.

After a slow 1-4 start to the beginning of the season, the Lancers have played solid basketball, having gone 8-8 since. If the Lancers can move above .500 in their upcoming games, they will have a legitimate chance of finishing with a winning record. According to head coach Bill Braman, finishing with a winning record was a goal coming into the season.

Both teams travel to Morton College Jan. 31. The women's game tips-off at 5:15 p.m. while the men's game begins at approximately 7:15. Both teams then travel to Kishwaukee Feb. 2.

Anderson has been named to the Mid-West All-American team. Anderson, a senior, was also named to the inaugural Verizon/College Sports Information Directors of Americas Academic All-District V women's team. The announcement came from Regional Coordinator Andy Knapick last week. CoSIDA's District V includes the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Minnesota, not to mention the Canadien Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

While at Northern, Anderson was a key contributor to the Huskie defensive unit that posted a 44 percent improvement in goals allowed (43) this year. Last season, they had allowed 77 goals in 2000.

Her marking responsibilities limited scoring chances to a single assist versus Mid-American Conference rival the University of Toledo, giving her eight points (three goals) over her four year career.

Anderson was limited to 49 matches over the four years due to a series of injuries and illness, including 12 games this fall. But she is a three-time member of the Mid-American Confernece All-Academic Honor Roll. In the classroom, she had a 3.90 GPA as a marketing major. That made her a three-time honoree in the NIU Athletic Department's Academic Excellence Program. Anderson has also earned three Dean's List citations in the school's acclaimed College of Business.

"Megan has been through a lot in her four years. But she's stayed with it and it's nice to see her recognized like this," said Huskies Head Coach Frank Horvat. She represents what we're trying to do—bring in student-athletes who are able to handle the academic side and succeed both on the field and in the classroom."

Anderson was nominated by NIU's Sports Information Director Robert Hester for the Mid-West All-American Team.

Awards

NIU has announced the following student-athletes have been recognized as Academic Excellence honorees: Laura Deutsch (Antioch), a cheerleader and operations management major with a 3.79 GPA; former Grayslake product Danielle Franas, also a cheerleader with a 3.67 GPA majoring in psychology; and Vernon Hills native and men's soccer player Keith Hormel (Libertyville H.S.), a business major with a 4.0 GPA.

Employment Questions Answered

By Scott T. Fleischmann

Recently, I have had several requests (primarily from the editors and publishers who subscribe to this column) to publish the questions that I receive from readers along with answers. After exploring this option with them, we have decided to do a monthly column dedicated to answering questions from readers. This is the first column dedicated to your questions. Question:

Is it a good idea to use my current employer as a reference for a job that I am considering? Joe P.

Joe, this is a very common and complex question. The balance between giving a future employer the most current reference and the possible alienation of a current employer needs to be carefully considered. Here is how I suggest approaching that question.

· I would never do anything that would harm your relationship with your current employer.

· Gain a good understanding of your current employer's approach to employees who are considering other employment. Some companies are very understanding and will consider giving positive references to employees who are looking for a different job. Others are not as cooperative.

 If you have a good relationship with your manager, he or \ she may be willing to discuss your work with a potential future employer regardless of the company policy.

• If using a current manager as a reference is not a possibility consider a former manager who has left the company, or someone who has retired. Your future employer is more interested in someone who has seen your work at your current employer than where that person currently works. · Consider your reason for leaving the employer and your work experience while you have been employed there. If either issue is negative (i.e., legal or ethical concerns, the company doesn't appreciate your contributions, poor performance evaluations) do not use them as a reference.

Most future employers will understand your concerns about using your current employer as a reference. Subsequently, not using a current employer is not a negative consideration when you are applying for a position. Question:

With all of the attention recently given to inaccuracies on resumes and applications, do I need to have documentation to support everything that I give to a potential future employer? Laura K.

The truth is more important than the documentation. You should be able to get all of the information correct on your resume since it is done on your timetable. Most people get into trouble trying to guess at the information to put on an application. For example, I have known of people who have gone astray by guessing about the dates they were employed at certain company. It is better to leave information off of the application rather than to write in erroneous information. If you are asked why the information is missing, explain that you are not completely sure of the answer. Then volunteer to get that information to them with in a day or two. However, having the information about prior employers, references, etc. is expected when you go for an interview. I suggest taking all of that information along anytime that you may need to complete an application. Scott T. Fleischmann is the Managing Principal for Integrity Business Solutions Inc., a full service management consulting firm. He can be contacted through e-mail at ibs.scottf@juno.com or through the company web site at www.aboutintegrity.net.

How To Survive The Job Search By Nancy Sakol

I have been searching for a job for several months. Interviewing has become a chore. I interview on my own, through employment and search firms and have come up empty handed for the past 5 months. I find myself filing out more applications and sending out more resumes then actually being interviewed. I seem to go into companies where receptionists just hand me an application that I wonder if they are actually passing on to the appropriate parities. I had an encounter today at a company called (name withheld) that angered me so I just had to write. I contacted the company last week and was told to come in at a specific time which I did. I was greeted by the receptionist and told to have a seat and fill out the application. I followed her instructions and when I was through, told her I was finished. She asked for my application and a copy of my resume and I went back to my seat. After 5 minutes she turned to me and said, "Is there something more I can do for you?" My response was that I was waiting to be interviewed. She proceeded to tell me that the company was not hiring at this time and that they would keep my application and resume on file. I could not believe that a company would actually set up an appointment for someone to come in and not interview them. I was so angry that I took my application and resume back from her and ripped them up in front of her. I told her that I would never work for a company who dragged people in their door for an appointment and not give them the courtesy of an interview. What are your thoughts on this incident? V.H. (via email)

Your experience was an unfortunate one for you. I have to say that the company should have initially told you that you would simply be filling out an application that day, and not be interviewed. Perhaps they failed to do so or perhaps they did and you didn't understand that. I can't guess. The manner in which you chose to handle it from there was not professional. To stand and rip up your application in front of someone who obviously had no control over any interviews was just not right. The receptionist was more than likely following the orders she had been given. To have caused a scene I'm sure put your name at the top of that companies list of outstanding candidates . . . NOT. Just for your knowledge there are corporations that have special entrances for job applicants to walk in and fill out applications with or without an invitation to do so. With unemployment where it is at, this trend is far from uncommon. So you need to get with the program and curb your attitude when things don't go exactly as planned. The receptionist you alienated may have turned your completed resume in to the appropriate person, and you may have been contacted later in the afternoon for an actual interview. While that is highly unlikely given the way you reacted in destroying your application and resume. I was recently a guest speaker at a forum attended by college students who were interested in my opinion of what one main attraction employers look for in candidates that set them apart from the rest when applying for positions. My answer to them was simply that there was no ONE attraction that can actually be pinpointed as companies vary in their needs, so I rather explained that if I had to focus on one area for them at all, it would be the power of a good
